

So tell me one thing...

As Asian consumers were saving and US consumers were spending, and the current accounts got all imbalanced, and also the capital accounts (as they must do if the current account is imbalanced), what were the US investing in with all that foreign capital?